THE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE AND THE MUDOC WAR FUND.

I find the following sentence in a Washing- 1 m ington letter in the Standards

But for the one laught and attack made on his Modes service by the investigating committee appointed by the legis ature of 1878, the side we is doubties have been reliabured by the time by the scenarior government for better centified did the rise and the remainter did the rise and its freezer tenting more harm than it over did good for any one person. It is, perhaps, sufficient to say that the letter is from the pen of H. H. Giffry, and that the investigating committee reprobated the methods by which he draw money from the treasury when Gov. Grover's private secretary. The committee also exposed frauds upon the treasury in the Modec business. The exposure has add no more to do with the failure of congress to reimburse the state than the appearance of the comet has. At d, if it had, nobody but those macting under the expeanse of the invostigating committee would favor the covering up of the france. Inspector-General Hardio, U. S. A., audited the claims of the laodeo war, an allowed $78,000. In 1870 Hon, J. F. Lane, a allowed $73,000. In 1876 Hon, J. F. Lane, then member for Oregon of the house, intreflued a bill swarfling that amount to the state of Oregon. It passed the house, but never was acted upon in the senate. No bill has been introduced, or effort made in that direction sine; until the meeting of this congress. The investigating committee did not preport till he spring of 1879. If it had never reported at all how was the state to be reimbursed as this conversions.

the state to be reimbursed as this corresp ent as crts, when nobody asked for it? The report had not sing whatever to do with the neglect of our representatives and Scuatosines 1876. They have not ried to get the money, and of course didn't get it. A bell his now been introduced to appropriate $191,000; the amount the state was made to pay. I how it will pass, but I expect it will be out down to the smount reported by Gon. Hardie as properly due. That amount might have been and any time during the last five years if an effort had been made to obtain it. I have a lathat the report of the investigating committee has had nothing to do with the delay of that. But if even to occasion the loss of such a claim every year, the state would then be gainer from its service. Since the date of that report the current expenses of the state have easily been met by the customary lovy. And this not withstuding the increase of population, and without increase of expense—the establishment of a separate supreme court with salaries of three addition al judges to pay, the great liferease of patients la lunatic asylum, and corresponding increase of expense of it, like lucrease of convicts n enitantiary, etc. So far as heard from, not a client has since been lost to the various school course has since been lost to the various school funds, and I am assured none has been lost. For some years prior to the report of that com-mittee the current expenses of the state each year vastly overran the same levy we have since had, until it amounted to over $400,000, or which a special levy of three mills was collec-which a special lovy of three mills was collected for some years. In addition to this, large sums of the various school funds were lost symmetric than to political and personal favorites. From the report of the commissioner of agriculture, George B. Loring, just received, we learn that a great deal of time and labor has been devoted the past year to the measurement of the fineness of the fibres of wool, and tabulating the mathematical calculations in such a way that the results of the investigation will be easily understood by producers, dealers or manufacturers in weolen industries throughout the world. The most interesting feature of this work, as thus far developed, is the fact that after carefully measuring the wools of Germany, "graded by one of high authority on the subject of the Gorman system of classification," it has been settled that we are able to presen authoritative figures for the comparison of the fineness of our own wools with the celebrated products of the old world." The result of this comparison is that our manufacturers ero greatly mistaken whon they claim that it is necessary to der to perform their best work. "It enables ws to confidently affirm that it is possible to produce in the United States as the wool as can be produced in any other part of the world; and, further, that the fineness of the products of the Saxony and Spanish Me inco have not deteriorated since their introduction to this continents, and in strongthening the bonds of country, wherever the maintenance of this riching him. The patent mistake mano by three times greater. this writer and others of his clever type is the drawing of a general law from a limited induction of facts. Evils are seen to arise from introduced by Senator Logan to place General unequal ownership of land. But if land is to Grant on the retired list of the army, says; be subject to ownership at all, it is not explained how its equal distribution can be effected and maintained any more than that of other forms of property; and if all lands are to be owned by the state and administered for the common bonelit, then the principle is introduced which requires the state to take eare of everybody-a principle which canhardly be accepted as favorable to industry, happiness, or general prosperity. But it fact the foundation of this new system of economy is a transparent and dangerous fraud. Its cardinal principle strikes at the right of the most secred property on earth-that of home. According to its dictum, a man may become a Rothschild in movable estate and exercise all the immense and unfathemable power connected with such possessions for good or ovil with impunity; but it is a sin against human nature to own one foot of land! What a prodigious lie against nature is this? What imprinciple would prevail, would surpass it?

pudence can equal it? What danger, if the world, who are the happy or unhappy owners of land which they have acquired by inheritance or purchase are the judges of the righteousness and policy of a system that would strike at one sweep the dearest and most cherished possession they hold out of existence. Government and society have over been based on the fact and recognition of the ownership in land. Is it reserved for his human race and to break up the institutions of ages into one great chaos? It seems not primitive rights in the chesp opinion of individuals and cliques is a sign of a degenerate humanity in nome of sits reaches, which will not be corrected until some precious and more worthless blood be shed. In some sections of the earth the course of civilization has pressed the masses hardly. Let them settle their questions of right at home. We are not responsible; we are not pressed for want of space. Why Loui these dootrines in our faces ! Why insist that the entire world should take the nauscous medicine when only a representative here and there is sick? Agitators may "catechise" to their hearts content, but they will fail to induce Americans to believe that their salvation ever depends upon their forswearing now and

SPORANE PALIS, Dec. 26.

At the last session of the legislature of this terri-At the last session of the legislature of this territory this town was incorporated as a city, with R. W. Forrest as meyer, and for councilmen, L. W. Rims, G. A. Davis, A. M. Camon, W. C. Gray, L. H. Whitehouse, B. O. Havenhale and F. M. Moore, all leading business men. The streets, alloys, avonues, promenades, drives and parks are all on a liberal scale. Six years ago there were eight families hers. Stock-faising was the business all around here. Within two years past the town has reached its present size and large business. The permanent population is now not less than 900 permanent sutlers, besides not less than 900 permanent sutlers, besides not less than 900 permanent autlers, besides not less than 900 permanent autlers, besides and lat are crowded. The restaurants, and all are crowded.

lation is now not less than 300 permanent sotlers, besides not less than 130 transient persons.
Thore fare commodious hotels here, besides four restaurants, and all are crowded. To them I would recommend traveiers and others.
There are 35 business places here, and some of the wholesale and retail stores carry a business of $49, 000 each. The trade of the town this year will foot up a half million of collars. All the business houses and many of the residences, churches, city half and school houses show a permanency and wealth of a city intended to rengal.

The Congregational church is suclosed and has its hell and seats, but not yet painted. It is a neat, well arranged house. The pastor is Rev. Mr. Clark.
The Mothodists have a church house and a pastor, and so have the Episcopalisms.

The Rodney school here is taught by Rev. Dr.
Nevius of the Episcopalisms.
The Rodney school here is taught by Rev. Dr.
Nevius of the Episcopalisms.
The Bodney school here is better than that of many places on the frontier. The Masons, Odd Follows and A. O., U. w. have lodges here. There is a good union Sunday school kept at 2 P. M. in the city hall on soab Sunday. The climate here is unusually mild and equable for a country as far north as this is. It is much milder than any section in the states or Europe of the same latitude.

There is a remarkable exemption here from all malarish diseases, diphiheria and throat and imag diseases. The sir is wonderfully pure and bracting, and one can draw in a full breath here.

As this town is the center of a wast agricultural country, and has such a wonderfull water power, and is upon this great national realized, we may expect to see a population here within the next eight years of not less than 25,000 persons. In my next l will

New York Evening Post, Dec. 11. A strife is going on between Spokane Palls and The passage in the nessage in which the Chancy as to which will be the great city of this president discusses the sad condition of our county. Spokano Falls city is, according to my waynercantile navy is certainly a little mysterious. I bill, 162 miles northoset from Wallula junction and Hadeniores its decline, and at the same time says this decline would not have occurred if 192 miles from Walla Walls. The town is on the we had given our "navigation interests a pormain line of the Northern Pacific and 18 unles dis- tion of the aid and protection which have been tent from the west line of Jinha territory, through so widely bestowed a non our manufactures." which the road is being rapidly constructed. Within . He is, in fact, apparently in favor of encourtees that two years an eastern connection on this aging our ships to take part in foreign trade maile in length and a half tatte wide of fine gravel tectionist friends will turnish the public with exists here, 1573 feet above sea level. The drainage an explanation of the mental operation by is from east to west, and hence the streets are at which they make their love of high tarriff conways clear of mud, and no stagnant waters are to be patible with their desire that Americans should seen. North of the town runs Spekane river, which have a larger share of what is called "the carrying trade;" or, in other words, their desire that foreign freights should be made cheaper. But at present this operation is hardly comprehensible to outsiders. Tress freights are now kept down by competit on between foreign ves sels. Pro ectionists who are clampring for a revival of American shipping by means of Lounties. however, wish to increase this competition by enabling American vossels to take part in it. This would make freights lower still, and thus stimulate the carrying trade. The carrying trade is, however, another name for foreign commerce—the very thing which projectionists dotest, and which the projective tariff is meant to check and repress. I'm object of putting high duties on foreign goods under a protective tariff, as distinguished from a "tariff fo revenue only," is to make it difficult for foreign goods to reach us. They are partially obstructed by the cost of treight and insurance which saves us the necessity of making our tariff higher. If the freight and insurance ties in order to keep them out and prevent their underselling American products. To lower freights is, therefore, to lower the tariff, so that it looks at first bush as if a person who was in favor of lowering freights without raising the fariff, or, in other words, was i favor of protecting American industry and of paying bounties to ship owners to enable them to bring cheap foreign goods to our markets, was a little daft or "cranky." The mystery, we are sure, will some car be cleared up, but at presen, it is decidedly dark. Putting the question of inconsistency or self-contradiction aside, however, no sound proectionist ought to have saything to do with American attempts to to ke part in the foreign carrying trade. It is, from the protectionist point of view, a distinctly immoral, if not acoursed, traffic. If we owe it as a excred duty to the American luborer to shield him from the to the American tuberer to shield him from the competition of foreign goods, any American who goes not the foreign goods, any American who goes not the foreign trade as a shipowner plainly engages in an enterprise hostile to the best interests of his procer countrymen. If he were in the business already when the protective system was established and the great truths of rotection obtained their first lodgments in the retired consideration. ments in the national conscience, his refusal to go out of it without compensation might be execusable, like the read ness of the West India excusable, like the rean ness of the west inches slaveholders to receive compensation for their emancipated negroes. But the man who would now deliberately go into it would be distinctively sinning against the light. That president the statement of the statemen dent Arthur wittingly recommended that peo-ple should be bribed to go into it by grants of government money is something we will not yet fully believe. There must be in this part of the message something to be explained.

It is in the domestic carrying trade, if any, that shipowhers ought to be encouraged to in-vost capital. Every one acknowledges the util-ity and murality of the interchange of commo-dities, between the various states of the Union. There is on this point no difference of opinion. Freights between Portland and New York, and New York and Yor Orleans and See Park, and New York and New Orleans and San Francisco cannot be too cheap. The cheaper they are the better for the American workingman and the better for the American manufacturer, too. because the less he has to pay for transport the more he has for wages; or profits; or both. Here, however, we do nothing to lower freights. On the contrary, by shutting foreign ships out from the coasting trade, we help to keep interstate transportation high. We refuse to allow the American manufacturer who wishes to reach an American market with his goods, to avail himself of the cheaper transportation of-fered by the pauper crews of European vessels— another most extraordinary inconsistency. The true protectionist policy ought to seek to nake internal transportation as cheap, and foreign transportation as dear, as possible. In other words, the panper sailors of Europe ought to be invited to carry our goods to and fro among ourselves, but have every obstruc-tion offered to their bringing goods here from Europe. We ought not to pilot ships from foreign ports into ours, or let them use our lightheness, and ought to sell them bad charts at low rates. It may be said by some sophists that it is proper for Americans to engage in the foreign carrying rade, because a large part of it is devoted to transporting American products to foreign markets, and thus 'keeping the balance of trade in our favor," or, in other words, bringing over European gold in exchange for our grain and cheese and cattle. The plea is specious, but will not be a examination. In the year 1880 not to go any further back, we ex-ported in morchandise $893,688,595; in the ported in morchandise $835,688,595; in the same year we imported in morchandise $667,-$953,302; this apparently caves a balance of 105,682,293 due to us from foreigners. It is but a small part of the total transaction, but still if we received it all in specie it would be something. But we did not. In 1880 we imported $83,084,310 in specie, and exported $17,142,149, and that we call retired. ported $93,084,310 in specie, and exported $17,142,113, so that we only gained at best $75,892,111; or about half the balance due to us, so that the fact remains very palpable that the foreign carrying trade, which some people wish us to encourage Americans to perpetuate by government bounties, was the means of landing on openhors about $500,000 000 000 worth by government bounties, was the means of landing on our shores about $600,000,000 worth of foreign goods. In trading with foreigners, of toreign goods. In trading with foreigners, we took in exchange for our goods over 70 per cont. of theirs. If there be any value or truth in "protectionist princip es," if "tarifi" he a synonym for gospel or glad tidings, as some speakers at the late convention seemed to think. this surely was a most nefarious traffic—a traffic hot to be encouraged by a civilized nation, but stamped with the reproduction, both legal and moral, which finally overtook the class and a traffic hot with the contract. the slave trade; though his, too, like free trade, once had its apologists, and even apos-
